ANOTHER MYSTERY

Doctors' Dilemma In K.L. Case

(From Our Own Reporter)

Kuala Lumpur, Friday.

AS telegraphed yesterday, the Detective branch of the local police, following information laid by a Chinese woman living at Gonggang, that her husband had been missing since Saturday, discovered the body of a Chinese, believed to be the missing man, in a swampy area near the Rifle Range here.

The circumstances of the man's disappearance and the information which led the police to the spot where the body was found have led the police to suspect strongly that it is a case of murder, but so far the doctors, it is understood, have not been able to establish the cause of death.

The body, when found, was in a fairly advanced state of decomposition. Its burial in a swamy place did not help towards its preservation.

The post-mortem examination, carried out with great care failed to reveal any signs of violence and the doctors it is reported, were not prepared to arrive at a decision without further expert examination.

They are understood to have sent the contents of the stomach to the Institute of Medical Research to discover whether here is any evidence of poisoning.

The police are in the meantime following the matter up and hope to effect an arrest within a day or two.
